I. Catalogue Description
This course is concerned with physical, emotional and sexual abuse of children, child neglect and exploitation.

II. Course Overview
Social Work 646 is a concentration elective in the Child, Youth, and Family Welfare Concentration, and a required course for students in the Title IV-E Public Child Welfare Training Program. This course is concerned with the physical, emotional and sexual abuse of children, and child neglect. The course is designed to foster critical thinking about child maltreatment as a social phenomenon. Students will be exposed to conceptual, theoretical, and state-of-the-art empirical literature on the causes and consequences of different forms of child maltreatment; historical and current perspectives on child maltreatment intervention; systems- and family-level prevention models; policies that relate to or affect child maltreatment rates; cultural issues in the identification and assessment of child maltreatment; and issues unique to particular subgroups (e.g., families in poverty, minorities). There is a particular emphasis in this course on the prevention of child maltreatment.

This course is not intended as a forum for clinical training in working with children, families, or in systems that deal with child maltreatment issues. However, students should gain a broad understanding of the scope, causes, ethical issues, and consequences related to child abuse and neglect, and be able to apply this knowledge in a wide range of settings that deal with child development and child protection.

IV. Course Content
The following is an outline of the topics and required readings to be covered in the course, in order of their presentation. Unless otherwise specified by the instructor, these topics and readings will correspond to the dates in the outline. Please note that all readings listed are required; additional recommended readings will be posted from time to time on the course website. Guest lecturers will be introduced as they become available.

WEEK 1: October 31

PART I: Syllabus Overview and Introduction to Field of Child Protection

Required Readings

In the first half of our four-hour class, we will introduce ourselves and review the course syllabus. Then we will use an in-class exercise to development awareness of personal values related to child maltreatment that potentially influence professional practice. Finally, we will briefly examine the history of the child protection field.

In-class exercise: Values Survey

PART II: Definitions of Abuse/Neglect and Prevalence

Required Readings

In the second half of class, we will review and discuss the federal and Wisconsin statutory definitions of abuse and neglect, the principles and origins of mandatory reporting, and discuss the influence of societal and personal values on definitions of maltreatment. Next, we will examine child abuse and neglect prevalence in the U.S. and the various sources used to estimate these trends. We will begin to discuss gaps in our knowledge base about child maltreatment and understand the implications of these knowledge deficits.

The Values Survey reflection paper will be handed out and is due week 2 (by 9AM on November 7, 2015 to Learn@UW dropbox).
WEEK 2: November 7
ASSIGNMENT DUE: Values Survey reflection Paper

PART I: What does child protection work look like? How do families experience the CPS system?

Required Readings

Today we will examine how parents, children, and families experience the protection system and consider how power inequities impact child protection policy and practice. We will view a film on emergency child protection work. Our discussion of the film and required readings will highlight ethical dilemmas and ambiguities in CPS practice, and focus on strategies to improve CPS practice.

In-class film: Frontline: Failure to Protect, Part Two. Public Broadcasting Service (PBS).

In-class exercise: Turning Stones Ethics Debate

PART II: Risk/safety Assessment

In this half of class, we will discuss different models for assessing risk of child maltreatment in CPS practice and when risk/safety assessment occurs during the case process. We will also discuss whether certain risk/safety assessment tools could aid agencies and workers in combatting racial disproportionality in the child welfare system.

In-class exercise: Comparison of state risk/safety assessment instruments
WEEK 3: November 14

PART I: Parenting and culture, race and ethnicity

Required Readings

Today we will discuss whether race and ethnicity are related to parenting styles, and whether they influence the judgments we make about others’ caregiving abilities. Then, we will examine data about racial disparity in child welfare outcomes in Dane County from a recent report from the Wisconsin Council on Children and Family’s Race to Equity project. Finally, we will identify several cultural practices that can be confused with maltreatment.

PART II: Parenting: socioeconomic status and child disability

Required Readings

In this half of class, we will look at the intersection of familial factors and risk of child maltreatment beginning with family socioeconomic status and whether one or more children in the family have a disability.

WEEK 4: November 21

PART I: Prevention of Child Maltreatment

In the first half of class, we will examine child maltreatment prevention programs. First, we will look at alternative/differential response initiatives that aim to prevent child maltreatment for those children at lower risk for abuse/neglect. Next, we will examine specific child abuse and neglect prevention strategies: home-visiting programs, parent education, interventions in early childhood and school settings, etc., and discuss the strengths/weaknesses of the approaches.

PART II: Neglect

Neglect is one of the most difficult forms of maltreatment to define, and can be more easily confused with poverty than other forms of maltreatment. We will discuss several typologies and causal theories of neglect, the role of poverty in child neglect, and current perspectives on “failure-to-thrive” as it pertains to child neglect. We will also consider the risk and protective factors for child neglect that are identified in empirical literature.

In-class film: Burke Harris, Nadine (Feb 2015). How Childhood Trauma Affects Health Across a Lifetime, TED Conferences, LLC.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28 – NO CLASS – THANKSGIVING WEEKEND

WEEK 5: December 5

PART I: Physical Abuse

In the first half of class, we will focus on physical abuse including a review of common visual signs of abuse and various conditions and folk remedies that may be confused with physical abuse. We also consider various theories of why physical child abuse occurs and discuss how racial and class biases may influence definitions and reports of physical abuse. We will also consider the risk and protective factors for physical abuse that are identified in empirical literature. A short in-class film will examine the difficulty of identifying whether maltreatment contributed to the cause of death for infants and children who die under suspicious circumstances.

In-class film: Frontline: The Child Cases. Public Broadcasting Service (PBS)

PART II: Sexual abuse

This session will include discussion on controversies in defining sexual abuse, the primary theories and risk factors associated with child sexual abuse victimization, and an overview of normative and atypical sexual behaviors in children. We will also address issues in sexual abuse disclosure by a child and the role of non-offending caregivers upon disclosure. An in-class film shows survivors of childhood sexual abuse telling their stories.

In-class film: Breaking Silence. Aquarius Productions.

WEEK 6: December 12

ASSIGNMENT DUE: Final paper – Analysis of Current Topic in Child Protection

PART I: Emotional abuse

Today we will consider emotional abuse; an abuse typology that researchers have found difficult to define and child protection workers have found difficult to assess and substantiate.

In-class exercise: CPS case studies: Identifying maltreatment types and case planning

PART II: Substance abuse and child maltreatment

In this segment, we will discuss the state of the knowledge base on the effects of prenatal substance exposure on the fetus and developing child. We will also consider the debates on child welfare policies related to mandatory reporting of substance-exposed infants and universal screening for fetal substance exposure. Next, we will explore how the use of various types of substances may affect parenting/care-giving behaviors. We will also discuss how parental substance abuse and recovery can present unique challenges to meeting timely reunification standards mandated by the Adoption and Safe Families Act.

WEEK 7: December 19

PART I: Domestic violence and child maltreatment

In this class session, we will review the prevalence of co-occurring domestic violence and child maltreatment, and the mechanisms linking domestic violence to various forms of child maltreatment. We will also focus on how CPS handles cases of alleged maltreatment when domestic violence is a co-occurring factor and controversial “failure-to-protect” child welfare policies.

PART II: Brief Presentations of Final Paper Findings and Class Wrap-up

In our last session, students will be given time to discuss their final papers with other students who wrote on the same topic, if applicable. A brief presentation of the findings will be prepared and students will present and lead discussion on their topic area. We will then discuss strategies for disseminating this information to the policy and practice community, and for integrating these results into future practice with families at risk for child maltreatment. Finally, time for feedback to the instructor on course strengths and areas for improvement will be allotted.
V. Texts and Reading Materials for the course
Readings are available through the Learn@UW site at the UW-Madison. I will post additional articles to the course website—these readings will be recommended rather than required. Other course material (e.g., handouts, further instructions on course assignments, etc.) will be posted to the course website. It is essential that you check the course website frequently for both required and recommended course material. The book, Turning Stones, by Marc Parent, can be purchased (approx. $16) via online booksellers (e.g. Borders, Barnes and Noble, Amazon, etc.), or may be found in used bookstores in your area.

VI. Evaluation of Competencies and Practice Behaviors: Assignments, Grading and Methods
The assignments for 646 offer some flexibility so that each student can focus their coursework on topics of personal and/or professional interest. However, the issues covered in every week of class are likely to be relevant across interest areas, and students are expected to read weekly material ahead of time, come to class with questions and comments, and participate in class discussions. Please see section VII: Attendance Policy for details on how missed classes will affect your grade.

Students will be evaluated on the following assignments:

1. Values Survey Reflection Paper 25%
2. Critical reading review 25%
3. Final paper – Current Topic in Child Protection 40%
4. Class participation & Discussion Questions 10%

Grades are not assigned on a curve. Each of the above components is worth 100 points, and these components are then weighted (i.e., multiplied by .25, .25, .4, .1, respectively) to arrive at your final grade. There are no extra credit or make-up assignments. Points earned on each assignment and your final grade will be assigned as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Grade</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A</td>
<td>94-100</td>
<td>Outstanding; surpasses expectations in most areas</td>

Note about grading: Your goal for this and other courses should be to make the most of your learning experience, and not to simply “get an A.” Your expectations about the grades you receive on assignments should be wholly based on (1) the extent to which you respond to assignment objectives, (2) the quality of your writing (to include grammar and spelling, organization, and clarity), (3) your ability to demonstrate critical thinking, and (4) your level of effort and engagement with the course and assigned material. If there is something about an assignment that is unclear to you, it is your job to bring this to my attention. Grade expectations should NOT be based on what you have received in other courses—this is never a legitimate argument for appealing a grade. If you have an issue with a grade that you receive in this course, please document the reasons for your appeal in writing with specific attention to the four points raised above and I will give your appeal my careful attention.

Assignments

1. Values reflection paper (25% of final grade)
   As we have learned in class and from our readings, race, gender, culture, socio-economic status, ethnicity and even geographic location all inform our values on what constitutes child abuse and neglect outside of legal definitions. These values impact not only how we, as social work practitioners, proceed in our duties, but impact how policy is made, how interventions are carried out, how legal sanctions are imposed, and what is reported to authorities by mandated reporters.

   1. Complete the values survey yourself first. Then have the survey completed by a person who identifies her or himself as being from a race/ethnicity other than yours.
   2. Share your responses with that person, and vice versa. Discuss any significant differences that you see.
   3. Write a short (3-4 pages maximum, double-spaced, 12 point font, standard margins) reflection paper in which you:
      a.) Summarize differences, if any, in your survey responses and the implications you see for your practice.
      b.) Identify and discuss criteria that you believe could be used to distinguish between poor parenting/amoral behavior and child abuse and neglect.

   You will submit to Learn@UW dropbox the paper as well as the surveys themselves. Your partner’s survey can be done via interview format, but your partner’s responses (no identifying information) must be submitted as well. This assignment is due by the beginning of class (9am) on week 2 (November 7, 2015). A grading rubric and surveys are available on the Learn@UW course website.

2. Critical Reading Review (25% of final grade)
   Papers should be 3-4 pages maximum, double spaced, 12-point font, and standard margins. You will summarize (approximately 1 page) and critique (at least 2 pages) the substantive information in the reading. The critique should include a statement of the strengths (what the authors did well, and why it is important for social work practice) and weaknesses (what they did not do well or failed to do). The content should demonstrate a critical reaction to the reading, not only a summary or statement of delight or disgust re: the content. You are expected to be an intelligent consumer of research content, based on comparisons of related material, your education and experience, and the applicability of the material to your practice.

   The articles that count toward this assignment must be empirical in nature (rather than conceptual or theoretical only. Those with asterisks (*) in the syllabus are considered empirical. The critical reading reviews are due at the beginning (9am) of the class session in which the reading will be discussed. If you miss this deadline, you must choose a different week on which to base your critical review. Adherence to the APA rules for citations is expected (recent updates to the APA form can be obtained at http://www.apastyle.org/manual/whats-new.aspx) It is your responsibility to understand the rules for book, magazine and on-line source citations. Details on this course assignment and a grading rubric will be posted to the course website by week 2.
3. Final Paper – Analysis of Current Topic in Child Protection (40% of final grade)

This assignment requires you to utilize research literature to discuss a current topic in child protection and then make recommendations to improve child welfare practice in this area (a list of pertinent topics will be provided by the instructor). The format for this assignment is a 3-4 page single-spaced memorandum. This paper will be due week 6 (by 9am on December 12, 2015) of class. Students will also be required to participate in a group presentation on their topic that is worth 10% of this assignment’s total grade. Class time in week 7 (December 19, 2015) will be allotted to meet in your group to prepare for these in-class presentations. Details on this course assignment and a grading rubric will be posted to the course website by week 3.

4. Class Participation & Discussion Questions (10% of final grade)

Your grade for class participation is based on active participation in class discussions and the quality of your participation (i.e., you need to demonstrate that you are prepared for class and have thought critically about the weekly readings and topics of discussion).

In addition, during week 1, students will be given the opportunity to sign up for 2 articles for which they will develop 3 discussion questions each. Then, on the day that article is discussed, they will lead classroom discussion (using their developed questions) to help the class better understand the article and its implication for the child welfare policy/practice. Students will need to upload their 3 discussion questions to the Assignments folder on the course website by the beginning of class (9am) the week the article will be discussed.

Expectations

Students are expected to:

- Attend class weekly and read required materials prior to the lecture class. Please see Section VII of this syllabus for the attendance policy.
- Attend and actively participate in in-class discussion, including any on-line discussions initiated by the Instructor.
- Turn off all cell phone tones and pagers during class (set them to vibrate) and to refrain from taking calls, "tweeting", texting, using instant messaging, sending or responding to any social networking or email venues during class, or using the internet for anything other than directed class work. You will be able to check messages during breaks each class session. (If you experience a personal or family crisis, please notify the instructor upon arriving for class or beforehand that you may need to respond to a call during class.)
- Complete all assignments as required.
- Respond to any requests by the instructor to re-write assignments due to deficiencies in the written product, including grammar and or APA style requirements.
- Advocate for yourself and present any questions or concerns to the instructor that may require the instructor to adjust her presentation to enhance learning for all.

The instructor is expected to:

- Be available to students to answer questions and to respond to student concerns.
- Begin and end classes on time.
- Create a comfortable and open atmosphere conducive to learning.
- Assure that course objectives are met.
• Assure that the classroom and course materials are accessible (per ADA requirements) to all students.

VII. Course Policies

Attendance Policy
Due to the accelerated nature of courses in the University of Wisconsin-Madison Part-Time MSW Program, students are expected to attend all scheduled classes and to arrive on time.

Promptness
Prompt arrival to all courses is required.
• Instructors may take actions they deem appropriate if a student is consistently tardy.
• Instructors may also consider a significantly late arrival or early departure as an absence.

Absence
To ensure a quality educational experience, students must attend and participate in classes.
• Attendance will be taken at each class and students’ level of participation noted.
• Excused and Unexcused absences:
  ~ The first unexcused absence will result in a student’s grade being dropped one full grade.
  ~ The second unexcused absence will place the student at risk for failing the course.
  ~ On a case-by-case basis, it is left to the instructor’s discretion as to what is defined as an excused absence as well as to determine appropriate follow up plans.
• Additional graded make-up work appropriate for the content missed will be assigned for excused and unexcused absences. Students in SW646 will be required to complete a 4-page reaction paper on the missed week’s readings.
• Students are responsible for completing any class requirements for the day missed, and for obtaining from a fellow classmate any assignments, materials, and communications missed due to absence, late arrival or early departure.
• Students who must be absent due to inclement weather or other emergencies should contact the instructor prior to the start of class to be considered for an excused absence.
• Inclement Weather Policy
  ~ If there is inclement weather across the Program area, students will be expected to check their email prior to leaving for class to confirm whether classes are cancelled.
  ~ If classes are not cancelled but an individual student concludes he/she cannot safely travel to reach his/her class site, the student must contact his/her instructor(s) regarding his/her plan to not travel. This absence will be considered excused and makeup work will be assigned.

Code of Ethics, Student Rights and Responsibilities & Plagiarism
BSW and incoming MSW students read and signed electronic forms of the NASW Code of Ethics, the School of Social Work Plagiarism Policy and the Student Rights and Responsibilities. In doing so, they agreed that while in the BSW or MSW Program they would honor the NASW Code of Ethics and Student’s Rights and Responsibilities, as well as adhere to the Plagiarism Policy and that should they not do so, sanctions would be imposed. BSW and MSW students are expected to adhere to these policies in the classroom, in the field and in the preparation of course assignments.

Students with Disabilities
If you require accommodations to obtain equal access to this class or to any assignments that may be given, please contact me as soon as possible. I want all my students to have an excellent learning experience.

Student Behavior Policy
In order to learn, we must be open to the views of people different from ourselves. Each and every voice in the classroom is important and brings with it a wealth of experiences, values and beliefs. In this time we share together over the semester, please honor the uniqueness of your fellow classmates, and appreciate the opportunity we have to learn from each other. Please respect your fellow students’ opinions and refrain from personal attacks or demeaning comments of any kind. Finally, remember to keep confidential all issues of a personal or professional nature discussed in class.
