The Department of Social and Cultural Sciences invites applications for a permanent, non-tenure track position at the rank of Adjunct Assistant Professor, beginning August 2014. Applicants should be prepared to contribute primarily to the Social Welfare and Justice major and should be able and willing to: 1] teach a core course in clinical practice skills and elective direct practice courses appropriate to the major and, 2] manage and administer the department’s Internship Program that includes weekly seminars, student supervision, on-site evaluation, and ongoing development of community partnerships. Opportunities to develop and participate in community-based research projects also exist. Applicants should have experience in university-level teaching, mentoring, and engaging with local non-profit, law enforcement, and educational groups. A licensure eligible M.S.W. degree and clinical experience required, other advanced degrees a plus.

The Department of Social and Cultural Sciences offers undergraduate majors in Social Welfare and Justice, Anthropology, Criminology and Law Studies, and Sociology. The department’s Internship Program includes students from all four majors. The department is committed to excellence in both teaching and scholarship. Please visit the department web site: http://www.marquette.edu/socs/.
